

Show Title: Podcast Pedagogy

Log Line: Resources for teaching podcasting.

Synopsis:

Welcome to Podcast Pedagogy. I'm your host, Dr. Jason Lee Guthrie. On this podcast we'll have interviews with experts about everything to do with podcasting. I hope that you'll join us on this journey and I look forward to learning more with you.

Music and Sound Effects: All original recordings

Marketing Information

Format: 1:1 Interviews

Genre: Education

Target Audience: Teachers and Students of all ages interested in producing their own podcasts.

3 Similar Productions:

- Podcraft: <https://www.thepodcasthost.com/podcraft-podcast/>
- 5 Minute Mondays: <https://www.buzzsprout.com/328913>
- School of Podcasting: <https://schoolofpodcasting.com/>

Pilot Transcript

00:00

JASON 1: Hi, I'm Dr. Jason Lee Guthrie. Today on the show I'm actually going to be interviewing myself. So, Doctor Guthrie thanks for coming to the show.

00:20

JASON 2: Thanks for having me.

00:21

J1: Alright, let's get right into it. My first question today is why did you take a class about podcasting?

00:28

J2: You know, I really wanted to teach this class for quite a while. Really excited about this podcast is one of my favorite mediums. I'm a musician in my spare time, so this is something I've always wanted to do and I'm really glad to get a chance.

00:45

J1: OK great. What is something that you're hoping to get out of the class?

00:50

J2: I am hoping to get out of the class some relationships with students who are interested in producing great media, doing great things and just helping them do what they want in their future careers.

01:10

J1: Awesome and finally, how do you think learning about podcasting will help you in your future career?

01:17

J2: Well, I want to be considered the greatest professor to ever teach podcasting. I want all other professors to learn from me, so I'm looking forward to that.

01:27

J1: Stupendous alright well thanks so much for being on the show.

01:32

J2: Yeah, thanks!